

UAR Pilot Gets Asylum In Israel

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP)—A United Arab Republic air Force officer flew a Soviet-built trainer into Israel from Egypt Sunday and asked political asylum, the government announced.

A spokesman said Israeli army planes drove off U.A.R. aircraft which pursued flight Capt. Mahmoud Hilmi Abas toward Israel. Abas landed safely in his Yak II plane.

Abas told his interrogators he left Egypt "for political reasons," the state controlled Radio Kol Israel said.

Rails Merger Talks Today

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton and some of his aides plan to confer Monday on the proposed merger of the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads.

Atty. Gen. Walter A. Alexander, whose office has been studying the proposal, said no decisions have yet been made on whether or not the state will voice approval of the merger plans.

The Sunday Philadelphia Inquirer, said Gov. Scranton is planning a position of conditional approval. The Inquirer said the commonwealth would recommend several conditions, including protection for the Port of Philadelphia, in what was called "a guardedly neutral stand."

Guns Drawn At Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP)—Communist and West Berlin police faced each other at gunpoint at the Red wall Sunday in the most serious border incident since the Christmas holiday period.

The confrontation came as a 17-year-old East German, defying Communist gun fire, climbed the wall and got entangled in the barbed wire at the top. His foot was hit by a bullet.

West Berlin police shouted across the wall that they would shoot back unless the firing was stopped. When the East German guards complied, several West Berlin officers rushed toward the wall and helped the bleeding youngster over to the Western side.

Scranton To Call Special Session

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. Scranton is expected to decide this week when to call a special session of the legislature on unemployment compensation and Project 70.

Some administration sources feel the call will come for Jan. 27 to run concurrently with the regular session, limited by law in Pennsylvania to fiscal matters.

Eminent domain and several other minor reforms also may be included in the topics of a special session, sources said.

Zanzibar's Sultan In Exile

MANCHESTER, England (AP)—The exiled Sultan of Zanzibar landed in foggy Britain on Sunday night and said he had set his heart on returning some day to his island off the east coast of Africa.

The sultan described as "very sad" the revolution which turned him out of his country a month after Zanzibar's independence from British rule. Of the strong man of the Zanzibar coup self styled "Field Marshal" John Okello, the Sultan said:

"I don't know him and had never heard of him before the revolution."

Hood's Car Explodes

DETROIT (AP)—Santo (Sam) Perrone, 69, reputed Mafia or Cosa Nostra member, was injured critically Sunday in a mysterious explosion in his parked car.

Reports from Saratoga General Hospital where Perrone was taken by firemen said he faced possible loss of a leg from the blast. He also suffered other injuries.

On the way to the hospital police said Perrone, who was conscious, kept muttering, "I wonder who did it. I wonder who did it."

Police said a bomb apparently had been placed in Perrone's car and set to explode when he turned the ignition key.

DEATH CAR—Driver lost his life when auto rammed into a tractor-trailer on Route 611 around 9:45 p.m. Sunday. The fatal crash occurred about three miles north of Tobyhanna. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Driver Killed On Rt. 611

TOBYHANNA — Russell O. Clark, 24, Factoryville RD 2, was killed when his auto rammed a tractor-trailer on Route 611 about three miles north of Tobyhanna around 9:45 p.m., yesterday.

The driver of the automobile was decapitated. Passers-by with heavy bars worked to free the body from the wrecked hard-top convertible. The top of the auto was shorn off.

The tractor-trailer was owned by Interstate Bakeries in Kingstons, Pa.

The truck driver, James Quinnan, of West Pittston, told State Troopers that the auto crossed from the right lane to the center lane as though the motorist "had fallen asleep."

The car was heading north. The tractor-trailer was heading south on 611.

The truck driver's report to the troopers was confirmed by another truckdriver who apparently witnessed the death crash.

Quinnan was reported not seriously hurt.

Last night troopers had set up flares along the highway and directed traffic.

The death car hit the left front of the truck causing the tractor-trailer to jackknife, troopers said. The truck then crossed the highway and ran into trees on the east side of the highway.

Johnson Economics In Spotlight Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional spotlight is turned this week on the economy and how President Johnson proposes to keep it perking toward new peaks of prosperity.

No surprises are expected when the Johnson formula is laid before Congress on Monday and Tuesday—first in the annual economic message and then in the budget message.

Johnson already has said he will propose a $97.9-billion budget for the fiscal year that begins July 1; he has expressed dismay at the specter of poverty amid plenty and said he intends to war on it; he has promised to slash the deficit, trim government employment and cut defense spending.

Saturday, close advisers to the President were letting it be known that he will tell the legislators that the gross national product—the sum of all goods and services—hit a record annual rate of $600 billion in the last quarter of 1963.

Johnson has been plugging hard for quick passage of the bill to reduce taxes by $11 billion and warning that delay would slow the economy's rise to new heights. This he can be expected to say again this week, and with special emphasis since the Senate Finance Committee is putting the finishing touches on the bill.

The budget message will list his recommended appropriations for each of the executive departments. Two were known in advance: last week the National Aeronautics and Space Administration asked for $5.3 billion in the new fiscal year and Johnson asked authorization for a $115-million appropriation for the Peace Corps, a $13-million increase.

The committees of Congress plan to settle down to work on Johnson's various proposals as quickly as possible.

The top item on the President's program, tax reduction, may move this week into position for Senate debate late this month or early in February. Administration leaders are hopeful that Senate passage may come by Feb. 11, when the Lincoln's Birthday recess starts.

Another major Johnson bill, a broad civil rights measure, goes into its third week of hearings before the House Rules Committee, with several more weeks of hearings likely. House leaders now plan to get a vote in the House itself next month.

Glenn Pushed For VP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Glenn-for-vice president talk blossomed Sunday in the wake of the space hero's dramatic bid for the Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination in his native Ohio.

Echoes from Marine L.T. Col. John H. Glenn Jr.'s widely publicized plunge into politics still reverberated as early arrivals gathered here for the party's first Ohio preprimary convention Monday.

But Glenn's candidacy sparked talk of his prospects for the second spot on a national ticket, expected to be headed by President Johnson.

Politicians generally agreed that a landslide senatorial nomination in Ohio's May 5 primary election would mark Glenn as a prospect that could hardly be overlooked for the national ticket.

Stalwarts in the Ohio Democratic organization professed loyalty to incumbent U.S. Sen. Stephen M. Young, 74, in his battle for reelection against the 42-year-old astronaut but many conceded privately that Young stood to lose.

Some asserted that Glenn-for-vice president should tip the balance this year and enable Democrats to capture Ohio, which the late President John F. Kennedy lost in 1960.

Daily Record Offers $600 Scholarship

STROUDSBURG — The Daily Record is offering a $600 scholarship to a high school student for a six-week summer school of journalism at Blair Academy in Blairstown, N. J.

Working with high school principals, English teachers and publication advisors in the five Monroe County high schools, the newspaper will recommend a student for acceptance by the academy.

"This is a unique opportunity for a Monroe County high school student to study English composition, news writing, government and to catch the excitement of writing for a newspaper," Jim Ottaway Jr., editor of the Daily Record, said.

The seven-man faculty of Blair Academy instructors and journalism professors from Penn State University, and the Schools of Journalism at the Universities of Illinois and Syracuse will be assisted by well-known speakers from the journalism profession.

Guests Speakers James Hagerty, vice president of the American Broadcasting Co. and former press secretary to President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Richard T. Baker, assistant dean of the Columbia School of Journalism are among the special speakers who will hold "press conferences" with the 60 students at the school.

The session runs from June 29 to August 8, 1964, and is open to boys or girls completing the eleventh or twelfth grades this spring.

Applicants will be asked to show proficiency in English and Social Studies and interest in school publications or writing.

Contact Principals

Interested students should contact their school principals, publication advisor or the head of the English Department. Courses include the rules of writing, journalism in American literature, the historical background of news of the day, government and the press, great American journalists, news writing and editing and field assignments.

The assignments include writing stories on police, church, politics, personalities and events of the day.

Field Trips

Group trips will be made to the United Nations, Bethlehem Steel Co., the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. Research Center in Easton and area newspapers.

The $600 scholarship offered by The Daily Record covers tuition, room and board and program activities. It does not cover the cost of transportation to the school, laundry and personal expenses.

The classes will be held five days a week with time set aside for social and athletic activities such as movies, dances and picnics.

Robed Ku Klux Klan Sparks Melee In Seething Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP)—Ten robed Ku Klux Klansmen entered a segregated restaurant while Negroes picketed outside, touching off a brawling melee and the worst racial incident in Atlanta in months.

Twenty-four persons were arrested outside the restaurant Saturday night, and 49 more were arrested a few hours later outside the city jail where they had gone to protest earlier arrests.

73 Trials Scheduled

Trials for all 73 were scheduled for Municipal Court Monday.

Elsewhere in the South, a white youth was convicted of second degree manslaughter in the shooting of a Negro boy at Birmingham, Ala., and numerous crosses were reported burned in Negro communities of southeastern Louisiana.

The FBI said the Justice Department was informed of the reports. The crosses, wrapped in burlap and soaked in kerosene, were more or less of uniform construction and the burnings apparently were co-ordinated.

Birmingham Conviction

At Birmingham, Larry Joe Sims, 16, was convicted Saturday of second degree manslaughter in the Sept. 15 shooting of a 13-year-old Negro, Virgil Ware. The jury fixed Sims' sentence at seven months in the county jail.

Louisiana Action

In Baton Rouge, an anonymous caller told the Morning Advocate the burning crosses signified a reactivation of the Klan in that area. The caller said 100 crosses would be burned.

Crosses were burned in a dozen or more Louisiana cities last September, including one on the state capitol grounds at Baton Rouge.

Most of those arrested in the Atlanta incidents were Negroes, members of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee and other integration groups. One white man was arrested when he allegedly pulled a knife and threatened the demonstrators.

The first group was charged with disorderly conduct and the second with disturbing the peace. Bond was set at $100 each for all.

One of those arrested in the first demonstration was John Lewis, SNCC chairman. Police said he kicked and elbowed officers as he was shoved into a paddy wagon.

Police officer T. R. Pierce said he was kned in the groin while attempting to arrest several Negroes. "I don't know who kicked me... one of those girls," Pierce said.

The first incident began when Negroes began to hurl taunts at the klansmen, calling them "ghosts" and saying they were afraid to come out of the restaurant. The restaurant was locked, the lights went out and the klansmen stayed inside.

Police arrived but refused to arrest the Negroes without warrants.

More Negroes Arrive

More Negroes arrived and the demonstration continued for two hours with the Ku Kluxers inside the restaurant before police began to ask the Negroes to move on. They refused and the arrests began.

The melee started when a Negro being moved along by a policeman fell to the ground and had to be carried to a wagon. Others threw themselves under the wagon and were carried struggling to the wagons. At least 150 Negroes were involved in the incident.

Federal Force Needed?

Negro Job Chances Meager, Civil Rights Team Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal compulsion probably is inevitable, the Civil Rights Commission said Sunday, to break barriers that continue to bar most non-whites from skilled crafts and jobs.

The commission reported only meager increases in Negro and minority apprenticeships and employment have resulted from intensified government prodding, voluntary understandings with industry and civil rights pressures.

"Little progress can be expected" in opening up better paid jobs for non-whites, the commission declared, "as long as the federal government depends on such voluntary relationships with management and the unions."

Reports from eight states and the District of Columbia, prompted the conclusion that administrative changes and basic reforms in law "will probably become inevitable."

The commission blamed everybody concerned for a finding, in the 1960 census, that non-whites constitute little more than five per cent of all American apprentices and job trainees.

Even that figure, in commission eyes, is suspect because it doesn't jibe with reports of the federal Bureau of Apprenticeship and Training whose official records don't identify racial origins.

BAT, established 26 years ago, was chided also for delaying until March 1963 the appointment of its first Negro field representative and for failing to use authority it has to demand enforcement of non-discrimination clauses in apprenticeship agreements with industries and unions.

The commission found some industries lukewarm to apprenticeship agreements with the government, with or without discrimination provisions, because they are "able to steal" needed trained workers from competitors who do support training programs.

U.S. Must Leave Canal, Boyd Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Panama's ambassador to the United Nations said Sunday that the United States' right to operate the Panama Canal in perpetuity must be ended and a time fixed when Panama will take over the waterway.

Aquilino Boyd said the 1903 treaty granting perpetual rights was imposed on Panama under duress and is "repugnant" and "obsolete."

Appearing on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation," Boyd said the United States must agree to renegotiate the treaty or diplomatic relations will not be restored.

Wipe Out Privileges

Boyd said Panama also wants all special American privileges in the Panama Canal Zone wiped out and indicated the zone itself must go.

"It is not right for Americans to live in the heart of Panama behind that fence," he said.

An Inter-American Peace Commission meets here at 10 a.m. EST Monday with representatives of the United States and Panama. The commission, an agency of the Organization of American States, hopes to meet with President Johnson, either late Monday or early Tuesday.

Boyd spoke of "60 years of injustices" to Panama under the existing treaty, and strongly denied a statement by Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance that 10 suspected Communist agents, including one sniper, had been arrested by Panamanians after riots broke out there Jan. 9.

More than 20 persons were killed and hundreds wounded in the disturbances. They erupted over Panama's right to fly its flag within the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone.

Demos Boom Casey For Senate Race

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Democratic county chairman and leaders from seven counties in northeastern Pennsylvania endorsed state Sen. Robert P. Casey of Scranton Sunday for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate.

Casey, 32, has been mentioned frequently as one of the leading candidates to oppose Republican Hugh Scott, up for re-election. The endorsement was given prior to a regional meeting called by Democratic state chairman Otis B. Morse to discuss registration and other party matters.

Memorial Mass Sung For JFK

BOSTON (AP)—A pontifical solemn requiem Mass for President John F. Kennedy was sung Sunday in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and a 180-voice choir participating.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy sat in the front row and occasionally dabbed away a tear while Richard Cardinal Cushing sang the Mass for the President, assassinated in Dallas, Texas, eight weeks ago.

In a setting rare for a Roman Catholic function, the Boston Symphony Orchestra performed the Mozart masterpiece, "Requiem in D-Minor." The Mozart Mass itself is rarely sung at memorial functions, much less the presence of a symphonic orchestra.

Slaughter In Zanzibar

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanganyika (AP)—Tales of mass slaughter of Asians and Arabs following the revolution in Zanzibar reached here from the island state Sunday.

Letters to relatives in Tanganyika and newsmen arriving from Zanzibar told of bodies being thrown into communal graves and quickly covered so the true figure would probably never be known. But they said reliable reports put the number of Asians killed at well over 300 and that this was just a small fraction of the number slain in the Arab community.

2,000 Killed

The New York Times said in a dispatch from Mombasa, Kenya, that about 2,000 "political suspects" were reported slain and the death toll is expected to reach 4,000.

The dispatch, written by Robert Conley, Times Correspondent recently expelled from Zanzibar, said that the revolt was led by Cuban-trained African guerrillas.

A bodyguard of Foreign Minister Mohammed Abdul Rahman Babu told newsmen in Zanzibar last week he had trained in Cuba along with other Zanzibar revolutionaries.

Cuban-Trained

Americans and Britons who left Zanzibar after the revolt last Sunday have reported seeing rebels wearing Cuban-style uniforms. They said they heard some of the rebels speaking Spanish.

Relatives here of an Asian family were told in a letter from the island that the family was surrounded by rebels early Monday as they were returning from a picnic. One of the family died from a gaping stomach wound.

Another Dar Es Salaam family has heard that a relative,

Boxers Clinch, Quit, Watch TV, Fight Again

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Two German boxers suddenly stopped hitting each other in the middle of a bout, went back to their corners and watched television.

The cause of this and many other recent strange happenings in West German social life is a fictional character called Tim Frazer, British intelligence agent hunting a gang of international diamond smugglers.

A product of British detective story writer Francis Durbridge, Frazer is now a top hit on German television. His serialized war on diamond smugglers has taken the nation by storm.

Four nights a week Tim Frazer dodges bullets and seductive blondes—and four nights a week West German bar owners, movie house managers and night school teachers, to name a few, pray that one or another will finish him off.

Organizers of a boxing match between the cities of Offenbach and Heidelberg installed four television sets around the ring Saturday night and promised to suspend the fights — whatever stage they had reached — the moment Tim Frazer appeared on the screens. It was the only way they could get anyone to come to the fights.

As a result two lightweights were suddenly ordered to break it up in mid-round. After the half-hour episode was over they went back to slugging it out in the ring.

Tim Frazer takes up large sections of the West German popular press. Some viewers love him, some hate him—but very few of Germany's 8.5 million sets are off when he's on.

The interior of the palace appeared undamaged by the fighting which toppled the Arab ruler a week ago, but the gate was broken. Apparently unused during the revolt was a polished brass Gatling gun cast in Hartford, Conn., in 1872.

Foreign Minister Mohammed Abdul Rahman told newsmen the Swiss Union's recognition of the new government "will improve friendly relations between our two peoples."

Neither Britain nor the United States has yet recognized the new government, but the Soviet Union has.

Good Morning!

State News Roundup

Union Protests Jobless Bill

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—Demonstrations are planned Monday at the Wilkes-Barre, Pittston and Nanticoke offices of the State Bureau of Unemployment Security by members of the Luzerne County Labor movement, it was announced Friday.

Union officials said demonstrations will be staged by union members in an all-out campaign against Gov. Scranton's proposed unemployment compensation bill. Picketing and distribution of leaflets are planned.

Faces Charge For Skid Row Deaths

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—District Attorney James C. Crumlish, Jr., said last week that 31 warrants charging a skid row variety storekeeper with involuntary manslaughter have been obtained from Magistrate Thomas Marcotta.

Named in the warrants was Max Feinberg, 46. He is accused of selling a canned heat product containing wood alcohol, which is blamed for the deaths of 31 persons from last Dec. 3 to 30. Feinberg is charged also with violation of the State Pharmaceutical Law in the sale of the products without the proper labels.

Mother Held In Twins' Deaths

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP)—A 26-year-old mother apparently suffocated her two twin infant sons and then attempted suicide herself Friday night, police said.

Police identified the woman as Mrs. Eleanor Esser.

She is in fair condition at Wilkes-Barre General Hospital after undergoing emergency treatment for swallowing what may have been a drug or a strong poison, police reported.

They said the children, 3-year-old Mark and his twin, William were apparently killed some time ago, though their bodies were not discovered until about 9 p.m. Friday night.

Wanted Man Still At Large

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A prisoner who escaped from a police van on the Schuylkill Expressway was reported still at large Sunday.

The man, Richard Wharton, 33, of Philadelphia, kicked open the rear door of the van and jumped out Saturday. He had been arrested on charges of burglary, larceny, receiving stolen goods and conspiracy. He was being held without bail and was being transferred to another jail when he got away.

Thirty-five policemen and three dogs were used to hunt for Wharton shortly after his escape. The search centered on the area around 30th Street Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the main post office.

Hit And Run Killer Sought

READING, Pa. (AP)—A driver struck down an 80-year-old man just 90 feet from his home in northeast Berks County Saturday night and sped away without stopping, state police reported Sunday.

The victim was Alvin Dey of Mertztown R.D. 1, who was hit while walking home from a nearby hotel.

Police searched for the hit and run car and driver.

ARA Team To Visit State

WASHINGTON (AP)—The deputy administrator of the Area Redevelopment Administration will visit Northumberland and Schuylkill Counties Monday to help in planning future programs to stimulate the area's economy.

Rep. George M. Rhodes, D-Pa., announced that Deputy Administrator Harold Williams will meet at noon with officials of Pottsville and the Greater Pottsville Industrial Development Corp. and later with Mount Carmel and Shamokin officials.

Scott Praises Gov. Scranton

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) said Sunday he believes Gov. Scranton is "one of the finest political candidates" the Republican party has today.

The junior senator also mentioned former vice President Richard M. Nixon, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon as possible first class candidates for the GOP nomination.

But he had special praise for the Pennsylvania governor who was endorsed 10 days ago by the Republican members of Congress who urged him to become an active candidate for nomination.

"I think Bill Scranton is one of the finest political candidates we could have," Scott said.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) feels that President Johnson will be at the nation's helm for the next four years.

Both senators appeared on television Sunday.

Clark said during the broadcast that President Johnson will likely be forced to make concessions to Panama to preserve good will between the two countries.

He also said the United States should approach the question of internationalizing the canal cautiously. "Although

I will not rule it out," On the problems with Latin America, Scott said, "I don't think we have made much effort to try to understand Latin America." He added, "I think we should treat Latin American peoples as our friends, countries as nations entitled to respect regardless of their government and that we should double our interest and activities with regard to the Organization of American States."

Clark said he thought the problems should be approached selectively rather than to just say, "Well, what'll we do about Latin America." The countries of Latin America are at least as different as the states of the American union, I would say Uruguay is as different from Brazil as Mississippi is from Pennsylvania."

The senators differed sharply on President Johnson's state of the union message.

Clark called the message "a splendid address, and the program is economically and socially sound."

Scott said it was "a short run state of the union message. It was addressed only to next November and the election. In the long run the things he proposes would cost perhaps twice as much as his $97 billion budget."

People In The Spotlight

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., proposes that the government establish a "D" award meaning Duncie Award.

The senator made the suggestion as he cited a waste of $18.7 million by Air Force procurement officers. He cited eight instances in a report by comptroller general in which the Air Force bought spare parts costing $50 million when the same items could have been acquired for about $32 million under differing contracts.

Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey last week invited Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople to visit Britain as his personal guests next May.

Though no details of the nature of their talks was made available, insiders expect them to range over existing close and friendly relations between the Anglican and Orthodox faiths.

Mary Lou Graves, the 5-year-old March of Dimes poster girl collected an autograph, a pen and a kiss from President Johnson last week.

The youngster, symbol of the 1964 campaign to raise funds to help overcome birth defects and arthritis was brought into the president's office in a wheelchair. She quickly produced an autograph book. And before the president shook her hand she said, "I'd better take off my gloves first."

Astronaut Alan B. Shepard is recuperating in a Houston hospital after a small tumor was removed from his thyroid gland.

The tumor was not malignant and the operation is not supposed to have any effect on Shepard's flying.

He is expected to leave the hospital late this week.

Sen. Gordon Allott of Colorado said last week that Gov. Scranton is "the dark horse I'd like to pick" as the most likely candidate to win the GOP presidential nomination in the event of a national convention deadlock. The atmosphere is 75 times as deep as the deepest ocean.

$930,000 Junior High School Must Blend With 1927 Style

STROUDSBURG — The proposed $930,000 Stroud Union Junior High School will be modern in feeling but not so modern in design as to clash with the senior high school building which was built in 1927.

This was the architectural effect of the new building as described by Murrel Kiefer, A.I.A., a partner in the Stroudsburg architectural firm of Rinker, Kiefer and Rake, designers of the building.

430 Students

The new school will accommodate 430 students and will be built adjacent to the present high school on land that is now Gordon Offels Field.

In addition to the new school building, new plans are under way for a $180,000 football stadium and $30,000 in alterations to the senior high school.

This combination will give the Stroud Union School District $1,160,000 worth of new facilities by April, 1965 — target date for finishing all the projects.

Planetarium
A feature of the junior high will be a planetarium that will be made available to students in the county's other schools and to the general public as well.

The planetarium — a reproduction of the universe's planetary system — is being partly financed with federal funds of $25,000 under provisions of the National Education Defense Act. It will be 33 feet in diameter and will hold up to 100 people.

Seventh and Eighth Grades
The new school will contain all the classrooms required by the seventh and eighth grades, including science, music, art and cafeteria facilities.

It will also contain a physical education area with a small gymnasium, which will also be used after school hours by the varsity wrestling team.

A large group instructional area will be on the first floor of the two-story structure and will be used for large class lectures and some school assemblies.

The only time students will leave the building will be for home economics and shop courses, library work or large assemblies. All these things will be held in the present high school, which will be connected to the new school by a canopied walkway.

Office Space
Besides the junior high school facilities, the new building will contain administrative offices plus space for the district superintendent.

A large covered loading dock will be built on the west face of the building. All children who arrive at the high school by bus will use this loading port.

The new football stadium will seat more than 5,000 fans and is being designed by Edward Hess, Stroudsburg civil engineer.

The stadium will include locker rooms for both home and visiting teams, officials dressing room, ticket windows, maintenance and grass mowing equipment rooms, public toilets and concession stands.

Alterations
Alterations to the high school building will include acoustically treating the auditorium. This will improve the listening quality of attractions that take place there, according to Kiefer.

The chemistry and physics laboratories in the high school will also be revamped. They were designed when the building was built in 1927.

Kiefer said bids will be received by March 20 and construction should start April 15. He said it takes about one year to finish all projects.

ARA To Discuss Art Center Aid

WASHINGTON — Pocono Art Center officials will meet with the deputy administrator of the Area Redevelopment Administration Tuesday morning to discuss the possibility of a federal loan for the proposed cultural center for the Pocono Mountains.

Harold Williams, ARA official, will be at Camelback ski area near Tannersville Tuesday from 9:15 a.m. to 9:45 a.m. Williams will be on a two-day inspection trip of ARA-supported projects in eastern Pennsylvania.

Camelback received an ARA construction loan of $316,000. Mrs. Marcia Clapp DeRoche, who has headed the art group's drive for $500,000 to build the center — which will house the Philadelphia Orchestra during the summer, said, "We will discuss the possibility of federal help for the project."

Mrs. DeRoche said that her group has no firm plans to make any request to Williams during Tuesday's talk but they do plan to discuss the possibility of the ARA participating in the project.

Rooney 'Hopeful'
Congressman Fred B. Rooney disclosed Saturday that he is "very hopeful" the art center will qualify for federal aid. Williams will visit nine different cities on his tour, inspecting projects, industrial parks, tourist facilities, visiting with chamber of commerce officials and industrial developers.

He will be covering the same ground visited a week ago by the first lady, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Williams was in Mrs. Johnson's party on the earlier tour. "We thought it advisable to take a closer look at how ARA is helping this hard-hit area (the anthracite region) to fight its way back to prosperity," he said.

Williams will visit the Berwick Forge and Foundry Co.; Hazleton's Valmont Industrial Park; and Scranton's Keystone Industrial Park.

He has scheduled dinner meetings with Chambers of Commerce in Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre and Pittston.

Pocono Chamber Committee Opposes Wage-Hour Bill

STROUDSBURG — The legislative action committee of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce has officially opposed the Minimum Wage-Hour Law Expansion bill now pending in Congress as being potentially harmful to the Pocono Mountain resort industry.

The committee at a meeting recently in the Penn-Stroud Hotel took a stand against the legislation because it will extend wage-hour coverage to restaurant, hotel, motel, laundry and agricultural process workers.

The bill also calls for a staggered increase in the federal minimum wage from the present $1.25 to $1.50. Hearings on the bill will start Jan. 21 in the House Labor Sub-Committee.

According to the action committee these circumstances would bring about a hardship on owners of restaurants, hotels and motels as well as agricultural processors, which include farmers who market their products.

The committee will write to Senators Hugh Scott, Joseph Clark and U.S. Representative Fred B. Rooney explaining its objections.

Anthony Bolyn of Mt. Pocono, head of the biological laboratory at National Drug Co. in Swiftwater and chairman of the legislative committee urged all committee members as well as the chamber board of directors to attend the eighth annual Aircade for Citizenship Action Feb. 11 in Reading.

Peterson Predicts Johnson Victory

STROUDSBURG — The chairman of the Monroe County Democratic committee said last night "there is no doubt in my mind" that President Johnson would be a resounding winner over Gov. William Scranton in this county in a presidential race.

Walter C. G. (Bud) Peterson of Stroudsburg, said, "With all due respect to the press, they can write copy now and until the cows come home about Scranton and the people will still go against him."

"Johnson will be equally as strong in Pennsylvania as President Kennedy would have been. The fact that he will have been in office for only one year at election time will be in the President's favor," he said.

Commenting on published reports that Otis Morris, state Democratic chairman, said a meeting of eight county chairmen in Allentown Saturday showed considerable sentiment for Northampton County Judge Clinton Budd Palmer as a possible U.S. Senate candidate, Peterson said:

Not Well Known
"Judge Palmer would make a terrific candidate in Monroe County but outside the Lehigh-Northampton - Monroe area he is not very well known."

Speaking of the prospects for the presidential election at the Allentown meeting, Morse declared:

"We are bullish for President Johnson."

Discussing the possibility that Gov. Scranton will gain the top spot on the GOP national ticket, he said:

GOP Problem
"Gov. Scranton looks more like a Republican problem than a Republican candidate."

Counties represented in addition to Monroe were Lehigh, Bucks, Northampton, Carbon, Pike, Delaware and Montgomery.

Attending the meeting with Peterson were Stuart Pipher, Monroe County Commissioner, Mrs. Grace Palmer, vice chairman of county Democratic committee and Atty. Samuel Newman, committee secretary.

Election problems were discussed by the 100 party brass from four congressional districts who met in the Americas Hotel.

Registration, candidates, organization and finances were the leading items of discussion, according to Peterson.

Broad Appeal
Peterson said the Democratic party in Monroe County will make a "broad-based appeal" to the voter based on the fact that it has the more attractive program.

"While we have people that have been most generous to the party over the years, we would prefer to have the great multi-million contributors," he said.

He said that the county committee will meet sometime this week and will announce a slate of organization supported candidates.

GOP On Poverty

It is an interesting fact that while three of the potential Republican candidates for the presidential nomination are men who inherited most of their wealth, the certain Democratic nominee is a "poor boy from West Texas" who was brought up in poor circumstances and rose above them to political and business success.

This fact is certain to sharpen the traditional stereotype of the national Republican party as the party of big business and the rich versus the national Democratic party as the party of the poor.

Needless to say that oversimplification is very misleading. A current debate among three Republican presidential possibilities shows how misleading that generalization can be.

Senator Barry Goldwater started the debate with a statement of his 19th century views on poverty and how to escape it. He said that the "war on poverty" declared by President Johnson (the poor boy from West Texas) can only be won "when we work our way to wealth."

And then in a statement which will come back to haunt him before the race is over, Goldwater said, "We are told however that many people lack skills and cannot find jobs because they did not have an education. . . . The fact is that most people who have no skill have had no education for the same reason—low intelligence or low ambition."

Goldwater, who found his job when he inherited one third of his father's department store in Phoenix, Arizona, was quickly challenged by Governor Nelson Rockefeller, who inherited considerably more millions from one of the richest men in American history.

"What Senator Goldwater doesn't understand is that a lot of people who are without jobs are not stupid or indolent but have been denied economic or educational opportunities," Rockefeller replied.

He added that Goldwater apparently does not understand racial prejudice as a factor in poverty and high relief costs.

Governor William Scranton, dark horse Republican who is receiving increasing national publicity, joined Rockefeller against Goldwater in the GOP debate on poverty.

When asked at his news conference in Harrisburg last week if he thought Goldwater had alienated "the relief vote" by suggesting that welfare recipients should work for their grants, Scranton said:

"Well, it's been my experience that almost everyone in this nation, given the opportunity to do so, would like to work, and would like to have the opportunity for education as well.

"It isn't only my experience that confirms that, but we've made surveys. . . we have here in Pennsylvania on the public assistance rolls which confirm that fact."

Scranton inherited most of his wealth, but he also inherited a strong sense of responsibility for the underprivileged and has acquired considerable practical experience in social work and public welfare programs.

Rockefeller and Scranton showed a much clearer understanding of the facts of poverty in America today. They know that the unemployed miners of West Virginia and Pennsylvania did not lose their jobs because of what Goldwater calls "low intelligence or low ambition."

Two Republicans who, ironically, were given great wealth by the accident of birth, know that the poor, the unemployed and the underprivileged cannot simply work their way to wealth. They also know that not everyone is born with it.

Comment Of The Day

"The Republicans who really want the nomination—Rockefeller, Goldwater and Nixon—probably can't get it, and the man who really doesn't want it—Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania—is probably going to have it forced upon him.

"Mr. Scranton is the Adlai Stevenson of 1964. Like Adlai in 1952 he is being sought out because he just happens to be the attractive governor of a big state his party wants to win. Like Adlai, he doesn't really think he's ready, would prefer to run next time, is both eloquent and reluctant, and is probably marked like Stevenson for nomination and defeat."

Panama Negotiations

By Walter Lippmann

There have already been some outcries in Congress which would, if they were taken at face value, prevent any discussion and negotiation about our relations with Panama.

There is every reason to think, however, that they will not prevail, that the United States will not identify itself with the misguided school children in Balboa and that there will be careful examination of the problems and of the causes of the continuing troubles.

There is, in fact, no alternative to discussion and negotiation. To stand like a stone wall and refuse to talk may seem like an heroic pose when taken in a speech on the floor of Congress. But it would not be a policy for preserving order in the operation of the canal. Jingo diemardism would be an invitation to continuing disorder, probably to that kind of severe terrorism which is the active form of Castroism in other parts of Latin America.

For the Panamanians, likewise, there is no real alternative to negotiations with the United States. They cannot, and they know that they cannot, do in Panama what Nasser did at Suez; they cannot command the United States to withdraw for if the United States withdrew, there would be some damage to our material interests and to our pride. But it would be a catastrophe for the Panamanians. Nor can they negotiate with us in an attitude of threatening to break diplomatic relations whenever the negotiations reach a point which does not suit them. For the United States can get along for quite a while without a formal exchange of ambassadors.

The reality of the matter is that there is no way to cut off, in this generation at any rate, to disentangle the intimate relationship which has grown up in Panama.

The original treaty of 1903 uses the grandiose words "in perpetuity." No one who has lived in the 20th century thinks any political arrangement is perpetual. But no one can doubt that the interwoven relations which have grown up in Panama are such that, though they can be modified, they must be modified only gradually.

This has been the view on which the government has acted during the 60 years since the canal was built. It is nonsense to talk as if negotiations about the treaty were some kind of abject surrender of United States' rights and to resist negotiation with the threadbare word "appeasement."

The record shows that the original treaty of 1903 has been formally amended twice — once in the treaty ratified by the Senate in July, 1939, just before the opening of the second world war, and again in 1955 under President Eisenhower.

Moreover, "the understandings" reached in that second treaty were put into effect in 1958 by act of Congress. This law dealt with "wage and employment practices of the government of the United States of America in the Canal Zone."

What is more, on April 19, 1960, President Eisenhower approved a nine-point program to work out improvements in the Canal Zone. The same intention was reiterated by President Kennedy in 1962 after his meeting with President Chirri of Panama.

There are, therefore, long and ample precedents for a full discussion of the problems of our relations with Panama.

Crowd Call?

On the day of Queen Elizabeth's coronation, Noel Coward was viewing the parade from a balcony. Riding in an open landau was Queen Salote of the Tonga Islands, who was waving amicably to the admiring crowd; the spectators had obviously forgiven her ancestors for the killing and even eating of the invading British.

With the Polynesian ruler, serving as her escort, was a small, imperiously dressed English official.

"Oh, look," exclaimed a woman friend standing near Mr. Coward. "Isn't she too utterly adorable! But who is that sitting opposite her?"

"Her lunch," answered Mr. Coward tersely.

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison (First of a Series of Four)
HARRISBURG — There can be little doubt now that the City of Philadelphia is running a traffic - ticket-and-fine racket on upstate Pennsylvanians that not only warrants a full-scale investigation but prosecution to the hilt of those responsible for the appalling fraud.

That such a racket was under way was first disclosed by this column in mid-December on the basis of (at-the-time) somewhat meager information from two state lawmakers: Representative Erwin L. Murray, Cameron County, and Representative Russell E. Headlee, Greene County.

In that mid-December column revealing the Philadelphia traffic court racket it was suggested that others throughout the state who might have been similarly "tripped up" by the Philadelphia revenue-hungry traffic nuts would perhaps do well to write the two lawmakers of their experiences.

Since that time both lawmakers Murray and Headlee have received letter after letter of complaint from additional Keystone State motorists victimized by the Quaker City traffic-ticket - and - fine racket.

The response from "victims" has been such that it is crystal clear now, if there were every any doubts before, that the "City of Brotherly Love" is guilty of perpetrating a disgusting fraud on innocent Pennsylvanians — as guilty as a robber caught in the act of robbing a bank!

This demands a full-scale investigation — a simple play for justice and prosecution of those guilty — that should be initiated by the State Department of Justice. In the event the Attorney General fails to act, a legislative probe would not only be in order; it would be mandatory.

Vastly more than adequate information and evidence is now at hand for initiation of the probe; it's available to the Attorney General for the asking; it's time now for the Department of Justice to move.

What does this "evidence" comprise?

For the next three days this column will report fact after fact the actual experiences of Pennsylvanians the Philadelphia traffic people have attempted to "victimize" via the traffic-ticket - and - fine hoax.

First however some background facts are worth noting: Fundamentally, the victimizing of upstate non - Philadelphians in this traffic ticket racket apparently has been built around the belief that upstaters will be "cowed" by the "big city" threat of arrest if they don't pay their parking violation fine and costs of from $5 to $12.

If you violate such a parking ordinance you expect to pay the tab of course — but in the Philadelphia racket instances the folks involved were not in Philadelphia on the dates cited!

Education Costs Rise

(First In A Series)

Up, up and up. That appears to be the trail blazed in the education field in the past 10 years.

If expenses keep rising, it will cost taxpayers nearly as much money to send a student to public schools as it did a few years back to educate a college student.

Just in the past year, the average cost of educating a public school student rose five per cent. According to figures released by School Management Magazine, the hike was from $335 to $352 per pupil.

However, more than half of this $17 increase was spent to offset the effects of inflation. Unfortunately only $7 of the hike was spent for better education, more efficient teaching tools, and improved teacher salaries.

Another interesting point exploited by the periodical is that since the three year period of 1957-59 — the base period used by the U.S. government for price indexes — the average school district has increased its per pupil expenditures by 36 per cent.

Of this sum, only $141 went for educational improvements. The other $53 has been spent to offset inflation.

Webster describes inflation as "disproportionate and relatively sharp and sudden increase in the quantity of money or credit, or both."

"In accordance to the law of quantity, theory of money, inflation produces a rise in the price level."

That is what the taxpayer is going through today. His problem? Deflate the inflation. But this may have its repercussions too. Especially if the government doesn't have the "goods" to offset the money and credit.

The Pocono Mountains, School Magazine notes, are in the Middle Atlantic area that is spending — on the average — the most per pupil — $182 — reportedly 42 per cent above the national average. The West Coast and Hawaii and Alaska come next with an average per pupil expenditure of $90.

Some educators feel we are putting too much of our cash in surroundings and not enough in the basic foundations of education — books, visual aids and teacher salaries.

Others chant that education is pricing itself out of business. We take issue with this. But we do feel schools tend to put too much emphasis on outside — seemingly non-related extras — which cause the general public to wonder whether schools are for educating children or just a way of life.

Perhaps the biggest problem education has today is to learn how to educate the taxpayer. Scores of times, school administrators and board members leave a situation hanging when a little common sense will provide the answer to the general public.

Most times, though, they go into silence and let Mr. and Mrs. John Q. draw their own conclusions. And most times, the public does — but the wrong one.

Next — Teachers Salaries.

Ghana Aid Cutoff

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The special foreign aid review panel is tossing President Johnson a short-fused policy time-bomb in its plan for reorganizing the multi-billion dollar program.

Headed by Undersecretary of State George Ball, the administration's study group sent to the White House, without comment, a recommendation of the Agency for International Development that the U.S. shut down its aid mission in Ghana, which is rapidly becoming a Marxist state.

Under this AID proposal, the 30-member staff in Accra would be recalled immediately and their activities closed out by the U.S. embassy during the coming months.

The $55 million question of continuing participation in the Volta River project, the largest U.S. AID venture in Africa, is being left solely up to President Johnson because of its explosive international implications.

While AID officials made no specific recommendations on the project, the proposed closing of the AID mission is being taken at the White House as the agency's disapproval of further U.S. help for the $198 million dam as well as other AID programs.

The late President Kennedy made the controversial decision two years ago to underwrite the Volta River project with $100 million in long-term loans to be made over a period of years.

An estimated 55 per cent of the loans have been paid out to Ghana by AID and the Export-Import Bank. Other payments due to be made during 1964-65 will total approximately $50 million. U.S. aid to Ghana since 1956 totals $159 million.

Before President Johnson acts on the AID recommendation, White House aides report he will send his own special representative to Ghana for a first-hand look at the situation and a talk with Nkrumah.

"The Circle" — At the time of the decision to provide aid for the Volta River project, U.S. intelligence authorities warned President Kennedy that Ghana's President Kwame Nkrumah was a "Marxist with strong preferences for the Soviet system."

Not only has this dire warning been fully confirmed in recent months, but the Central Intelligence Agency has gathered new evidence of his Communist links and plans for Africa.

One Intelligence estimate now being circulated throughout the administration named the Ghanaian President as the head of "The Circle," a secret Communist revolutionary group with the objective of "creating and maintaining a Union of African Socialist Republics."

This clandestine group, organized and financed by the Krenthin, has its own secret code which is very similar to that of the Cosa Nostra — the underworld organization known as "The Thing."

Under "The Circle's" oath of allegiance, members face certain death if they divulge any secrets, plans or movements of "The Circle" or "betray another member."

Members must pledge that they will always "serve, sacrifice and suffer anything for the cause for which 'The Circle' stands — and well at all times be ready to go on any mission ordered by Nkrumah."

According to the Intelligence estimate, Nkrumah's recent announcements and actions in Ghana indicate he may be planning to surface his organization and reveal its aims.

It quotes one of "The Circle's" secret documents as forecasting, "At such time as may be deemed advisable, 'The Circle' will come out openly as a political party embracing the whole of West Africa."

Recent U.S. visitors to Ghana report that Nkrumah's sympathies are running strongly toward the Soviet Union. While the CIA has had no role in assassination plots against him, Nkrumah privately claims U.S. intelligence operators have been involved.

White House Inside — President Johnson had some uneasy moments when he presided over a recent White House meeting of congressional leaders and private citizens to discuss his new immigration proposals.

Centuries later, Etheldreda, or Audrey as she had been popularly called, became the patron saint of Ely. A fair in her honor was held annually on October 17.

Many flashy items were sold at the fair, but the most popular was a lace necklet called "St. Audrey's lace."

By running the words together, "St. Audrey's lace" was shortened to "a wad y lace," and "wad y" became associated with anything gaudy or showy.

Husband And Wife Can Kick Smoking Habit Together

By Jean Sprain Wilson
AP Newsfeatures Writer

New York (AP) — If you make a deal with your husband to go through the agonies of cigarette withdrawal together, both of you will have a better chance of shaking the dangerous habit.

The Buddy system has been found to be most effective among the thousands who jammed the auditoriums at Hunter College campus recently for the National Health Foundation's five-day How to Stop Smoking course.

As with alcoholics, fellow cigarette sufferers understand each other's tensions and are sympathetic. They can fight their problem together, and they can check up on each other.

But even though you are a non-smoker, you as a wife can still play an important role in winning your husband away from the weed. Dr. Catherine Hess and Dr. Elman Folkenberg agree.

Dr. Hess is assistant health commissioner for New York City and is in charge of the free citywide cigarette withdrawal clinics which are to open in April.

Elman Folkenberg, of South Lancaster, Mass., devised the program with Dr. J. Wayne McFarland and directs it. The 42-year-old psychologist is minister of a Seventh Day Adventist Church.

They suggest:

1. Your attitude is important. Above all, don't be holier than he. Don't nag him. Let the decision to quit be his alone and his to maintain. Don't hide the cigarettes. That is his prerogative. Some men like to put them on the mantel where they can thumb their noses at them, or carry them in their pockets as reassurance of their willpower.

or. But you might put away the ashtrays. Protect him from as many problems as possible for the first five days. He is jumpier than usual. Run interference with the kids, the bill collectors, and the in-laws.

2. Serve lighter foods, a liquid diet of fruit juices the first day, and plenty of fruit juices thereafter.

The glucose intake in the juices reduces the craving for fattening sweets.

3. Avoid highly spiced foods. These are too stimulating to the nervous system.

4. Cut out the coffee. Although coffee itself is not necessarily harmful, the coffee-and-cigarette habit is. Help him to break the long established pattern by removing the other half of the team.

"Give him a lot of water to drink," says Dr. Hess. "Did you ever see a man reach for a cigarette to drink with his water?"

Put on your walking shoes and take some of those brisk walks which he needs to work off his tension. You'll lose some tension, too.

Turn the television on, or provide some other entertainment after dinner to keep his mind off his big problem. Appreciate that it is a big problem which he is trying to solve. "Encourage, encourage," says psychologist Folkenberg, "encourage him every step of the way!"

Women Enjoy Farm Show

Harrisburg — What do women do when they come to the Farm Show? Where do they spend their time? What are they most interested in seeing? No one answer can tell the story, but here are a few observations.

When women find the exhibit room for clothing, foods, and rugs — the area is quite a distance from the main entrance — they're full of questions and comments. How do you get such beautiful whole tomatoes in the jars... mine don't come out that way...

Women are enthralled with the colorful variety of canned foods, the fascinating array of dresses of almost every description, suits of fabulous fabrics, and colors, and the gay gathered skirts that 10-year-old 4-H Club members make as the beginning clothing project.

Hooked and braided rugs — "how lovely that one could be on the floor in my bedroom."

"How did she get such soft shadings of colors in her braided rug?" (This woman didn't realize that fabrics for rugs usually must be dyed to get just the right colors.)

Women, and men too, are interested in the canned chairs and the wood finish, even asking if the chairs are for sale.

But women's interests are not limited to what other women can do with their hands. They poke around kitchen exhibits, perhaps casting a wistful eye and thinking "maybe I can have something like this next year."

Or they walk through the machinery exhibit eyeing the huge pieces of farm equipment and wonder if people really use such equipment. Or they get up close enough to finger the small garden tractors or the new models of power lawn mowers.

Livestock exhibits and livestock judging attract many women visitors. Not only because they may have a son or a daughter with a livestock exhibit, including poultry, sheep, and hogs, but just because they like animals.

Go into the beef cattle and the dairy cattle areas any time of the day and women are walking up and down the aisles commenting and admiring the handsome animals.

And women may stand in the big arena for a couple hours watching the judge pick a grand champion.

Members make as the beginning clothing project.

Hooked and braided rugs — "how lovely that one could be on the floor in my bedroom."

"How did she get such soft shadings of colors in her braided rug?" (This woman didn't realize that fabrics for rugs usually must be dyed to get just the right colors.)

Women, and men too, are interested in the canned chairs and the wood finish, even asking if the chairs are for sale.

Mrs. Richard A. Muller

Newfoundland Man Weds Miss Tirjan In Quakertown

Newfoundland — Miss Carolyn Tirjan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob M. Tirjan, Jr., of Millford Square, Bucks County, and Richard A. Muller, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Muller, Sr., of Newfoundland, were united in marriage at a nuptial mass Saturday, Dec. 28, at St. Isidore's Roman Catholic Church in Quakertown.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. F. Lyons before an altar decorated with seasonal flowers.

Miss Karen Fox of Quakertown provided wedding music, and accompanied Mr. Edward Gehring, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of white peau de satin, which was floor length and fashioned with long, pointed sleeves enhanced with Alencon lace motifs, a scoop neckline and natural waistline.

The bodice was enriched with re-embroidered Alencon lace, as was the front of the bell silhouette. The full carriage back was highlighted by two cabbage roses, and soft pleats drifted to form a chapel length train.

A silk illusion, bouffant veil fell from a cap headpiece of Alencon lace and peau de satin petals each outlined in seed pearls and dipped to a point on the forehead.

Orchid Bouquet — The bride carried a spray bouquet of Phalaenopsis orchids, surrounded by feathered carnations, intermingled with ivy and streamers. Attached to the streamers was a blue crystal rosary.

Mrs. John Leo Hanlon of Newfoundland cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Mrs. Paul Eichlin of Quakertown also a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ronald Fred of Lansdale were bridesmaids.

All wore floor length gowns of emerald green velvet featuring scoop necklines, fitted bodices and modified bell-shaped skirts.

Their headpieces were white fur pill boxes with a short circular veil, and they carried white fur muffs decorated with red poinsettia and holiday trim. The matron of honor's flowers were red poinsettia and gold trim.

Flower Girl — Miss Patricia Muller, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and wore a gown similar to those of the other attendants. She carried a white fur muff with red poinsettia having red and gold trim. Her headpiece was also a white fur pillbox with a short circular veil.

Robert A. Muller, Homesdale, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were John Leo Hanlon, and Michael Tirjan, brother of the bride, Charles J. Tirjan, also a brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bride's mother wore a dress of gold tulle, fashioned in a short styling with matching jacket. She wore a hat of sable feathers and brown accessories, and a lavender orchid corsage.

The bridegroom's mother chose a dress of horizon blue with white stole. Her hat was of deeper blue, and she wore black accessories and a white orchid corsage.

A reception for 80 guests was held at the Cedar Club, Bethlehem. The couple left after the reception for a wedding trip to Florida. Their home is at 469 Paxton St., Paterson, N.J.

Three bride is a graduate of Quakertown Community Senior High School, and was employed at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls.

Muller, a graduate of Greene-Dreher High School, now Southern Wayne, Newfoundland, served with the United States Army. He is associated with A. Blanger and Sons, Inc. in Lodi, N.J.

Mrs. Gearhart will trace the history of special education and show how today's schools meet the problems and needs of the retarded and emotionally disturbed pupils.

She holds a master's degree from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.

Women's Guild Tues. — East Stroudsburg — Mrs. Mida A. Taylor has requested a large attendance at the meeting of the Women's Guild of Grace Lutheran Church on Tuesday night to help make important decisions.

Methodist Mother Raises 19 Quietly

New York — Modern mothers who mean they can't manage their small families of two or three might get help from a letter written in the year of 1732 by Susanna Wesley, describing how she reared her brood of 19 children with very little difficulty.

Her system was so effective that "the family usually lived in as much quietness as if there had not been a child among them."

The letter, addressed to her famous son, John Wesley, founder of Methodism, is quoted in a new book, "Women of Light," by Walter Russell Bowie, published Jan. 2 by Harper and Row.

The book consists of one-chapter biographies of great women, some famous, some like Susanna Wesley, remembered only because their influence led others to fame.

"Cry Softly" — With love and firmness, this great mother taught her brood to "cry softly and to speak softly," avoiding the bedlam which could have resulted from 19 loud voices.

Even mealtimes, when growing youngsters often are loud in efforts to gain attention, were quiet in her household.

"They were suffered to eat and drink, as much as they would; but not to call for anything," she wrote. "If they wanted anything, they used to whisper to the maid which attended them, who came and spoke to me."

Children's Table — A new baby was born about every 12 months, and all the youngsters still unable to handle knife and fork were seated in little chairs at their own little table by the side of the family table. As soon as they could handle a knife and fork, they were "set to" the adult table.

Courtesy was taught them early, as well as quietness, and Susanna wrote, "They were quickly made to understand they might have nothing they cried for, and instructed to speak handsomely for what they wanted."

"They were not suffered to ask even the lowest servant for anything without saying, 'Pray give me such a thing,' and the servant was chide if she ever let them omit that word."

"Taking God's name in vain, cursing and swearing, profane names, obscenity, rude, ill-bred names, were never heard among them."

In the opening of her letter to her son, written July 21, 1732, in response to his request that she send him the principal rules she had observed in educating her family, she said:

"Regular Living" — "The children were always put into a regular method of living in such things as they were capable of, from their birth; as in dressing, undressing, changing their linen, etc. The first quarter commonly passes in sleep."

"After that they were, if possible, laid into their cradles awake, and rocked to sleep, and so they were kept rocking until it was time for them to awake. "This was done to bring them to a regular course of sleeping; which at first was three hours in the morning and three in the afternoon; afterwards two hours, till they needed none at all."

Maid Helps — In describing the routine of the children past this early stage, she wrote: "At six, as soon as family prayers were over, they had their supper; at seven the maid washed them; and, beginning at the youngest, she addressed and got them all to bed by eight; at which time she left them in their several rooms awake — for there was no such thing allowed of in our house as sitting by a child till it fell asleep."

Big Steel In Fight For Clean Water

HARRISBURG (AP) — Big steel has joined Pennsylvania's battle for clean streams, pledging $90,000 to help finance a sweeping research program on acid mine drainage.

William A. Hess, representing eight major steel companies, presented Gov. Scranton with a check for $30,000 Thursday. It was the first installment on the three-year pledge.

"This contribution is an indication of the sincere interest of the steel industry and a declaration of their spirit of cooperation in the acid mine drainage problem which confronts Pennsylvania," Scranton said in accepting the check.

Hess, manager of mines for the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp., said the overall aim of the research program is to develop some sort of process for treating water before it is dumped in the streams.

The research will be conducted under the auspices of the coal research board in the state mines and mineral industries department.

Mines Secretary H. Beecher Charnbury reported that a $15,000 contract already has been awarded to Wilkes College in Wilkes-Barre for research on the possibility of eliminating the iron content from mine water. Pennsylvania State University also is under contract for $40,000 to study methods of cleaning up acid mine water.

Caravan Reaches Bangkok

The Wally Byam Around the World Caravan has reached Bangkok, Thailand.

According to reports received here from Andrew J. Charles, leader of the Caravan, all 45 travel trailers, two vehicles and two service trucks entered the city Nov. 13. As in Singapore, Kuala Lumpur and elsewhere along their route, they were greeted royally in the picturesque capital city.

The trailers were met at the outskirts of Bangkok just as they crossed Memorial Bridge over the Chao Phraya river. There a contingent of waiting police cars, their red lights flashing, took them in tow with headlights on, American and Thai flags flying.

Cruising at between 30 to 40 miles per hour in close formation, the trailers were led along a route circling the heart of the city. They passed the Royal Palace, various government offices — including the Chinese Embassy — and many of the magnificent temples which characterize the Southeast Asian capital city. At every intersection foot patrolmen stood guard, holding back local traffic which had been carefully re-routed for the event.

The trailers were then led to Lumpini Park, where the Tourist Organization of Thailand had prepared a welcome including be-ribboned governmental officials, a band, clowns in massive plaster heads, and pretty girls with garlands of flowers for the Caravanners.

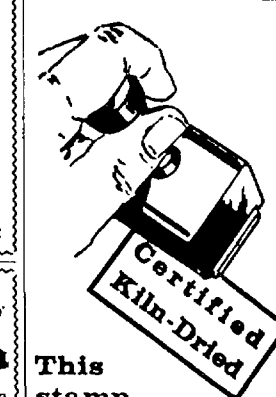

The Around the World Caravan spent nine days visiting the picturesque city, and then headed northward once more on Nov. 21. As this is written, Dec. 13, 1963, it is running about 12 days behind its rough itinerary. Caravanners and equipment are generally in "excellent shape" to continue their historic land voyage around the world, according to Andrew Charles, their leader.

"It's been a wonderful journey," Charles wrote. "We've had our expected — and a few unexpected — hardships but they have only served to intensify and deepen our feelings about this magnificent adventure."

In reaching Bangkok the Caravan completed the first 1,100-mile overland leg of its globe-circling route. That leg began in Singapore, Malaysia Oct. 24. The Caravan set out on its long journey from Los Angeles Sept. 23 when the 105 Caravanners and their equipment were loaded aboard separate ships for the overseas segment.

It is expected to return to the United States at New York City in the Fall of 1964.

Detergents Cut Water Pollution

For the past few years thousands of people across the nation, from water pollution experts to avid fishermen, have been expressing concern over the damage being done to our rivers and lakes by detergents.

Almost everyone has seen pictures in newspapers and magazines of froth-covered bodies of water. This condition is caused by the fact that most synthetic detergents are not "biodegradable," or, in simple language, are not destroyed by normal bacterial action in the sewage treatment plant.

In an effort to combat this situation, a new biodegradable detergent has been developed.

Family Room Needs Sink; Powder Room

Planning a family room for a new house?

Fine. But don't forget to provide for the plumbing.

The convenience and utility of the family room for all members of the family will be greatly enhanced if provision is made for a sink close to the bar and the charcoal broiler.

Also, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, it is a good idea to have a powder room adjoining the family room or close to it.

If there is direct access to the yard so that the powder room can double as a "nude room," so much the better. In this case it is advisable to have a shower included in the plans for the powder room with a utility room and a sink adjoining the family room.

Many older houses are being modernized by adding a family room. In this case the plumbing costs will be reduced if room can be found for the powder room and sink near an existing plumbing and installation.

Homeowners who are planning the addition of a family room should talk their plans over with D. Katz & Son, Plumbing Heating Division, Tanite Rd., Stroudsburg. Dial 421-1464 who will be able to offer many helpful suggestions based on their long years of experience.

Colored Fixtures Are Popular

Not long ago, having colored plumbing fixtures installed in your home was considered "adventurous." Today, about half of all fixtures sold are in color.

One reason is the new dimension color brings to bathroom and kitchen decorating. Endlessly variable color schemes make it a pleasure to plan and use facilities. Pleasing pastels open the door to artful decorating where walls, floor covering, towels and curtains can be fashionably blended or contrasted with fixtures.

And color durability is assured, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau. Colors are fused to fixtures and cannot fade. In addition, all color fixtures are acid-resisting.

Manufacturers maintain continuous color fidelity by employing an electronic "eye." The "eye" scans china glazes and enamels as they are being prepared. It detects color variations invisible to the human eye.

It is small wonder, then, that many of today's new homes use colored fixtures for bathrooms, powder rooms and kitchens.

for home . . . this not only adds another dimension to the home but the pleasure derived from having beautiful strains of music floating through the house is truly the essence of elegant living.

Inter-communication systems for the home, store, factory or farm is another talent Knipe displays. The intercom is a very handy and practical device, saving mom or the businessman many steps in a year's time.

Knipe's expert installation of the intercom will help anyone run a more efficient home or business.

Knipe's sales room is located on N. Sixth St., while his service shop is at 619 Wallace St., Stroudsburg. All service work is picked-up at the sales room, serviced at Wallace Street, and when expertly put back in working order returned to the sales room for delivery.

How To Correct A Water Problem

Don't panic and dash for a mop if it appears that your water closet is going to overflow. This may happen in cases of clogging.

To stop it, says the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, just lift the flush tank cover and push the flush ball straight down.

Don't mistake the flush ball for the float. The flush ball is smaller and fits into the discharge opening at the tank bottom. Once in place, water cannot enter the bowl and overflowing is prevented.

With the threat of overflowing removed, clearing the clogged water closet can be done in one of several ways.

1963 Tax Will Stay The Same

EDITOR'S NOTE — How much of your income is taxable? What income does not have to be reported? These and other questions about your 1963 income tax return are answered in this special article, first of five offering tips on how to file a return on your 1963 income.

By ADREN COOPER

Proposed changes in the tax laws have been popping into the headlines for months, but even if enacted by Congress they will have no effect on the income tax return most taxpayers must prepare between now and April 15.

In reporting income received in 1963, most taxpayers can follow the same procedures they used last year.

The changes involve somewhat stricter rules on reporting business and employee expenses, and provision for a child care deduction by a wife who has been deserted by her husband.

A good place to start on your income tax is a compilation of income you received in 1963. If you are an employee, most of your income probably came from wages, salaries and commissions. Ordinarily, the total will be listed on the small W-2 form supplied by your employer.

Here are some other types of income which must be reported: Almost all interest, whether it is paid on corporate bonds, loans, bank accounts or accounts with savings and loan associations; fees; bonuses; income from estates and trusts; military pay for active duty or reserve training; gambling winnings; severance pay; most contest prizes; alimony; most strike benefits.

In most cases these payments are fully taxable.

Income from the sale or exchange of property, such as stock or real estate, is called capital gains and is taxed at a lower rate if held for longer than six months. Usually, you subtract any losses from the gains — but the rules in this category are pretty complicated.

Here are other examples of income which are eligible for specialized treatment:

Royalties from patents or copyrights; royalties from oil or other mineral-producing property; rent; business profits; self-employment income; farm income from partnerships; dividends on stock.

The following types of income are not taxable and do not have to be reported: Federal and state social security benefits; Veterans Administration benefits to veterans and their families; gifts; inheritances; disability payments to former members of the armed forces; interest on state and municipal bonds; subsistence, uniform and quarters allowances for military men; government unemployment compensation; workmen's compensation; most scholarships and fellowships; public assistance payments to the blind; life insurance payments; dividends on stock which are paid in the form of additional stock.

Up to $100 per week in sick pay is tax free.

If you have been in the habit of disregarding relatively small amounts received as interest on a savings account, or dividends from corporate stock, it might be worth noting that the law now requires corporations, banks and other financial institutions to report to the Internal Revenue Service any payments of dividends or interest which are $10 or more a year.

And many of these reports from businesses will be checked by computer against individual returns.

After you have determined the type and total of your income you are in a position to decide what type of return to file; or, perhaps you'll discover you are not required to file.

WHO ARE WITHOUT ANY HOSPITAL COVERAGE

GOVERNOR SCRANTON'S STATEMENT ON COMMUNITY PREPAYMENT WEEK

I commend the Blue Cross plans of Pennsylvania for making possible this special statewide enrollment opportunity. I commend their action in co-ordinating this enrollment with the March 1 effective date of the State's purchase of hospital care program.

All of us in Pennsylvania can be proud of the progress made in meeting the hospital care needs of our citizens.

Our voluntary community hospitals are among the finest in the nation. Our community prepayment plans have made it possible for Pennsylvania residents to join together to pay for their hospital care on a dignified, self-reliant basis. And, through recent bipartisan action of the General Assembly, the Commonwealth now has a comprehensive program established to help those low-income citizens unable to pay for the hospital care they must have.

Our State program of care for needy persons over age 65 has been broadened. It now has the most liberal eligibility requirements in the country. And legislation which becomes effective March 1, 1964 provides an improved method to help low-income patients under age 65 obtain tax-financed hospital care if they need the assistance.

Our nonprofit Blue Cross plans, operating under special enabling legislation, are now offering this unique enrollment opportunity to those who can afford a moderate monthly payment.

I am pleased to designate the week of January 20, 1964 as Community Prepayment Week throughout the Commonwealth. I urge all who are able to do so to enroll for coverage at this time.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR FREE CARE UNDER NEW STATE LAW TO AID HOSPITALS?

As of March 1, 1964, State payments to hospitals for treatment they render to needy bed patients (in-patients) under 65 years of age will be greatly improved. A new "purchase of care" plan will replace the present "grant in aid" plan.

Under the new plan, persons who are eligible can receive 30 days of hospital care and 60 days of post-hospital nursing home care for each illness.

Eligibility for free care will be determined by the County Boards of Assistance. Families and individuals earning more per year or having more assets than set forth in the table below will be required to pay all or part of their hospital bill.

Size of Family	Income	Assets†
1 person	$1500	$1500
couple	2400	2400

For each dependent child add $500 to income

†Does not include own home, furnishings, car and $500 cash value of life insurance.

TO MAKE POSSIBLE the State's new hospital assistance program, more equitable standards will have to be applied in determining which in-patients under 65 are eligible for free care.

Undoubtedly, some families and individuals who are benefiting by the existing hospital-bill arrangement will find themselves no longer entitled to aid—it will all depend on their income and assets.

To such people, Blue Cross will become especially necessary. That is one reason why this special enrollment opportunity is now offered.

If You Lack the Vital Protection of Blue Cross, Join Now!

Desperate Measure Pays Off

Kentucky Uses Zone Against Tennessee

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

For 31 years Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp has hated the zone defense and refused to use it on the Wildcats' home court at Lexington, Ky.

Faced with a MUST win situation against Tennessee Saturday night, however, he changed his tactics and employed a 1-3-1 zone. The desperate measure paid off with a 66-57 victory and the Wildcats staved off elimination in the Southeastern Conference.

The Wildcats, fourth ranked nationally in last week's Associated Press poll, gained top ranking in December by sweep-

By Melvin Durslag

Mays And Money

By MELVIN DURLAG
Daily Record Special Columnist

LOS ANGELES — When Willie Mays signed a contract with San Francisco the other day for $105,000, he obviously was ill-advised, considering (A) it represented no hourly increase over wages the previous year, and (B) no provisions were stated that would protect him from automation.

Already on the drawing boards is a machine that will make basket catches, which means that Willie is on the way out.

Several reasons have been advanced on why the Giants pay Mays such a monstrous salary. One thought is that a man who performs in Candlestick Park deserves $105,000, especially if he is stationed in center field, which is the suspense area.

When a ball is hit to left, the center fielder is never certain whether it will eventually be his. When it is hit to center, he isn't sure whether it will be his or the right fielder's.

And then, of course, there are balls hit to deep center that wind up in the glove of the shortstop.

It is the indecisive nature of the work that brings the center fielder in San Francisco more money, just as there are extra benefits for guys, say, who disengage live bombs.

It is also suspected that the Giants pay Willie such a colossal wage as a way of getting back some of what he owes them.

From just about the day he came to work for Horace Stoneham, Mays has been on this hook. Thrift isn't one of Willie's virtues, and, by his own admission, it has been only lately that he has embarked upon an organized program to stabilize his finances.

Old-timers recall at one stage that Ruth, who was earning $80,000, used to borrow from Gehrig, who was making $25,000.

Horace Stoneham is Willie Mays' Gehrig. If Horace had eight dollars, he would give Willie seven, and repayment would be made from Willie's salary the following year. It's a sort of prolonged catching-up process which one day will flatten the Giants if Mays decides to quit.

When he does, baseball will be the loser, because Willie is possessed of that indefinable something that projects a man from the class of merely good to extra special.

With no effort that's contrived, he captures the fancy of the crowd. It happens with the subtlety with which DiMaggio did it with smooth, graceful movements, with which Mantle does it with brute force and with which Koufax does it with artful pitches that guys can't hit.

"If you ask me if any ball player is worth $105,000," says Fresno Thompson, the vice president of the Dodgers, "I have to say no, if we're speaking in terms of what he contributes to the result of a game."

"But when you consider the total contribution — the overall impact of a fellow like Mays on baseball — he is worth every quarter. And any other player who would begrudge him that much is stupid, because the whole scale of a team tends to go up when one man earns $105,000."

"In other words, say that I'm an outfielder who makes $12,000 with the Giants. I would no doubt demand $50,000 on the ground that I'm at least a fifth as good as Mays."

Players these days needn't be guided by salary scales on their own terms. Thompson relates, for instance, that when Tommy Davis, Dodger slugger, opened negotiations this season, he began: "I read where Kaline got $65,000."

Davis received something like $25,000 last season. "Do you want Kaline's salary already?" he was asked. There has as yet been no final resolution of the matter, but you can see where Davis will encourage Kaline to hit .350 this year.

Surprising to students of human behavior was the meekness with which Orlando Cepeda came to terms for $52,000.

Ordinarily, the Latin pride of Orlando is wounded at this time of year and he draws back with deep indignation when Mays signs for sums that dwarf the mental earnings Cepeda.

Last season, for example, Orlando held out resolutely when Mays got $105,000 and he, Cepeda, was reduced to indignance with a suggested $46,000.

This time, the Giants found a way to placate Orlando. For hitting .316 and smashing 34 home runs, he was raised to $52,000 — and Mays didn't get a nickel more than last year.

Post Goes To Jones

Wilkinson's Aide Named Successor

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones, 49-year-old longtime assistant coach, was named head football coach Sunday at Oklahoma succeeding Bud Wilkinson.

Wilkinson resigned as coach a week ago and as athletic director Saturday.

No decision was made at Sunday's meeting concerning the athletic directorship, but it apparently will go to Jones.

University regents ended a week of indecision Sunday and unanimously accepted the recommendation of the school's athletic council that Jones be hired.

Considers Politics

Wilkinson, who has said he is considering entering politics, strongly recommended Jones as his successor when he resigned as coach. Wilkinson resigned as athletic director because of what he termed "political maneuvering" by some regents that was causing a delay in naming a successor.

Wilkinson's resignation was accepted formally by the regents at the beginning of Sunday's meeting.

Closed Doors

Then the regents met behind closed doors for more than six hours before announcing Jones' selection.

The regents also interviewed three other assistant coaches before making the decision. They were Buck McPhail, backfield coach at Illinois; Sam Bugnosian, line coach at UCLA; and Mike Corgan, backfield coach at Nebraska.

The four assistants were the only prospects who responded favorably to about 20 feelers sent out by regents.

Top Assistant

Wilkinson added a 145-29-4 record in his 17 years at Oklahoma. Jones was his top assistant all that time.

Jones developed nine All-American players at Oklahoma. Jones developed nine All-American linemen at Oklahoma.

ling their first 10 starts of the season, but since they lost their first two SEC games they had to defeat the first place Vols to stay in contention.

Close Game

At that the game was close until Cotton Nash came up with three vital steals in the closing minutes and put the 'Cats in front by 11 points. Nash finished with 23 points.

Unbeaten UCLA, No. 1 in the AP poll, and Michigan, No. 3, cemented their claim to high ranking by whipping Stanford and Ohio State, but not so Cincinnati, dominant for six straight years in the Missouri Valley Conference.

The eight - ranked Bearcats lost in overtime to Drake 76-66 for the first time ever and were virtually eliminated from the MVC race as first place Wichita beat North Texas 85-70 for a 5-0 mark. Cincinnati has lost twice, its latest setback coming when Herman Watson of Drake scored three baskets in the extra period.

Stomp Stanford

UCLA, sparked again by Walt Hazzard and Gail Goodrich, stomped Stanford 80-61 for its 15th straight, but now faces a new Big Six challenger in California. Bill Buntin and Cazzie Russell led Michigan to first place in the Big Ten as the Wolverines trounced Ohio State 82-64.

Fifth-ranked Davidson and un-ranked DePaul kept pace with UCLA as the only major unbeaten. Davidson won twice during the week for a 14-0 mark. DePaul downed Dayton 89-83 Saturday for its 12th in a row. Dartmouth ended its 18-game losing streak, including 11 this season, by edging Amherst 56-53, leaving Tulane as the only winless major team.

Upset Victim

Vanderbilt, sixth-ranked, and No. 9 Villanova beat Mississippi and Xavier of Ohio, but seventh-ranked Oregon State was the victim of a 47-45 upset at the hands of Oregon Friday. The Beavers bounced back with a 66-53 victory over Oregon Saturday, however.

Princeton, defending champs in the Ivy League, was the victim of a stunning upset, too. Columbia beat the Tigers Saturday 69-66.

Leaders in the major conferences: SEC-Georgia Tech 3-0; Missouri Valley-Wichita 5-0; Big Eight-Oklahoma State 3-0; South ern-Davidson 5-0; ACC-Duke 6-0; Big Six-UCLA 6-0; Big Ten-Michigan 3-0; SWC-Texas A&M 3-0; Ivy-Cornell 4-1; WAC-Utah 2-0.

Pennel Is Outstanding L.A. Track Performer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Vaulter John Pennel lost two of his poles, and some of his touch, but not enough of either to keep him from being named the outstanding performer in the Los Angeles Invitational Indoor Track and Field Meet.

Technically, the finest performance was given by Bob Hayes of Florida A&M, who tied the indoor 60-yard dash record of 6 seconds flat.

West Trims East, 27-24

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Cotton Davidson of the Oakland Raiders connected with his pass catching teammate, Art Powell, on a 25-yard scoring strike with 43 seconds remaining to give the West a 27-24 triumph over the East in the American Football League's annual All-Star game Sunday.

Trailing 24-3 at the half as the East's Babe Parilli of Boston put on a brilliant passing show, the West in the third quarter on sparkling long range plays that produced two touchdowns and closed the margin to 24-17.

Keith Lincoln of the San Diego Chargers electrified the 20,016 fans in Balboa Stadium, as well as his trailing West teammates, with a spectacular 61-yard touchdown run.

Tension Mounts

Then Tobin Rote, the West's starting quarterback from the champion Chargers, hit teammate Lance Alworth with a 51-yard pass to the East four. Paul Lowe took it on in and the tension began to mount.

The West's Jim Fraser kicked a 12-yard field goal early in the fourth to make it 24-20, and the aroused West defense continued to hold Parilli, Larry Garron, Cookie Gilchrist and the East offense scoreless throughout the final two quarters.

With five minutes to go and Davidson at the controls, the West moved from a midfield deeper and deeper into the East's territory and the clock was ticking away.

East Holds

A Davidson-to-Alworth pass for 15 took the ball to the two, and for five plays—including an East offside — the rugged East held and then took possession of the ball.

The time was 1:29 to go. The West defense forced the East to punt, and the West took over on the East 43, with 1:05 remaining.

Davidson, ever harassed by the rushing East, shot short throws to Alworth, to Powell — and then the big one, an arching throw that found Powell virtually alone but running full speed into the left corner of the end zone.

Start Fast

Parilli herded the East 62 yards for the first touchdown. Gilchrist scoring from the one, and Gino Cappelletti added a 35-yard field goal, all in the first period.

The West came up with a field goal, 19 yards by Fraser, and the East traveled 63 yards for another touchdown.

Parilli passed for 12 to Garron for the first of his two touchdown losses. The second was for three to Bill Mathis which climaxed a 70-yard march. A 44-yard pass to Charlie Hennigan was the big gain of the series.

Cy Barrett Says

Six-Year Gripe

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY: I have listened to my husband gripe about his job for five or six years. Last night I told him if he spent as much effort looking for a new job as he does griping, he would have had dozens by now. He used to knock himself out working. During the last few years, the company where he works has lost men and the boss loads the work on those who stayed. No one has had a raise in 5 years, and my husband has given up doing anything unless he is told to do it. I am fed up listening to this griping. Maybe a word from you to back me up will help.

MARILYN ESCH

DEAR MARILYN:

Griping "lets off steam" but more often it dissipates energy. Your spouse is either a chronic complainer, without just cause, or a just man deserving a better deal. Either way, he should quit dissipating his spirit. If there's no future where he is, your husband should make a determined effort to find an employer who will honor industry and initiative.

Others possibly have already seen the handwriting and done this. Griping is not necessarily the sign of a weak man. Doing nothing and continuing to be a

DEAR CY:

The tragic airliner crash in Elkton, Maryland, in which 81 lives were lost, showed something unusual. It demonstrated how a courageous man will carry out his job to the last, even in the face of disaster. The pilot said to the tower, "Out of control. . . Down we go. . . Clipper 214 going down in flames." There isn't much left in the world of employment where a man is called upon to perform with such courage.

JIM HENRY

DEAR JIM:

No question about the airplane pilot's valor. But . . . I can't agree with your thinking few working men are called upon to be courageous today. At the time of the Elkton tragedy, newspapers carried another news story of the Studebaker corporation ending production of automobiles in its South Bend, Indiana plant. Over 5,000 hourly workers and a total of 6,000 employees suddenly found themselves in a state of shock without work. Many worked at the plant for over 30 years. In this incident, thousands of lives crashed. This will make the utmost demands on their courage.

CY

DEAR CY:

Sunday, we had a minister visiting our church who runs a mission for rehabilitating parole convicts. He talked more about fund raising than operating his rehabilitation center, stating, "The pity of it is I spend fifty to sixty percent of my time getting money to keep the mission operating. Most mission heads will tell you they do the same." We must raise money for our church and will soon meet to formulate plans. Do you know of any books telling how churches and charities can raise money? We know fund raising is difficult, regardless of how worthy our cause may be.

MRS. F. RAISER

DEAR MRS. RAISER:

In my opinion, "McCall's Book of Fund Raising Ideas," published recently by Prentice-Hall, is excellent. Your library may also have "Money Raising . . . How to Do It" by Irene Hazard Geringer. Though published in 1938 by Suttonhouse, it remains one of the best for elevating cash to more worthy causes. These volumes do include the crazy comedy lines and word-squirmers, spoken by pious brethren while giving excuses about why they can't give

Robert Wilson Leaves YMCA Barrett Branch For New Post

STROUDSBURG — Robert E. Baldwin, Tom Breslaue, Jacob Wilson, director of the Barrett branch of the YMCA of Monroe County has resigned to become extension and recreation secretary for the Bethlehem YMCA. He will move to his new position in February.

William Heilbig, president of the Monroe County YMCA, said at a recent meeting of the board of directors that the resignation had been accepted with regret. He praised the "dedicated work" of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson in the Barrett area since October, 1957.

Among the new programs which the Wilsons started were a summer day camp, teenage dances on Saturday nights, Tri-Hi-Y Club, mother and daughter and father and son banquets, art lessons by Edna Palmer Englehardt of Mountainhome, a Saturday program for children and several adult programs.

No replacement has been announced yet.

The board of directors at its first meeting of the year elected the following for a three year term: Mrs. John Appel, M. Stiles

OFFICE HOURS
"This budget cuts expenses to the bone—and when your office needs cleaning, I'll show you where the brooms are kept."

THE DAILY RECORD, THE STROUDSBURG, PA. — Mon., Jan. 20, 1964

BLONDIE
LET'S SEE—WHAT HAVE WE GOT FOR A BEDTIME SNACK?
AN ONION SANDWICH, SOME CHILI, CREAM PUFF AND A DILL PICKLE
CHOMP CHOMP CHOMP?
YOUR STOMACH MUST THINK IT'S A MISSILE-TESTING GROUND

DICK TRACY
OKAY, OKAY! SO MY EARS ARE WARM! CUT IT!
SHE WARMED MY COFFEE—NOW SHE'S WARMING HIS EARS AGAIN.
AT LEAST, IT'S TAKEN HER MIND OFF THE PHOTOGRAPHERS. THEY'RE GETTING SOME PICTURES.
LOOK AHEAD, MY EARS ARE HOT!

BEETLE BAILEY
WHERE'S BEETLE?
ER... HE HAD A HEADACHE AND HAD TO LIE DOWN FOR A MINUTE.
BEETLE IS ALWAYS SAYING HE'S ONLY LYING DOWN FOR A MINUTE!
I CAN'T WAIT TO HEAR HIM SAY IT THIS TIME!

ARCHIE
SURE I OWE A FEW KIDS MONEY!... I'M BUILDING UP CREDIT!
BOY! YOUR CREDIT MUST BE INCREDIBLE!
I THOUGHT YOU SAID YOU WERE FINALLY EVEN ON YOUR DEBTS!
I AM, POP! STRICTLY EVEN!
YEAH...
HE OWES AS MANY IN THE CLASS AS HE DOESN'T OWE!

MRS. FITZ FLATS
WAS I SEED RE-ELECTED CLUB TREASURER? THEY HAVEN'T ANNOUNCED THE RESULTS YET
WE DON'T KNOW. THEY HAVEN'T ANNOUNCED THE RESULTS YET
I'M SURE HE'LL WIN
I WISH HE WAS SURE
I'VE NEVER SEEN HIM SO INSECURE

BUZ SAWYER
LET'S GET AWAY FROM THESE CONFOUNDED GEESE, BUZ.
YES! AND I WONDER WHAT OTHER SENTRIES DR. SEED HAS IN HIS GARDENS!
TRY TO KEEP FROM BRUSHING AGAINST ANY FOLIAGE, ALMOST ANY FOLIAGE COULD BE POISONOUS.
OKAY, BUT FOLLOWING THESE MOONLIT PATHS IS JUST AS DANGEROUS, WE COULD BE SEEN A QUARTER MILE AWAY.

SNEEZY SMITH
YE OUGHT TO TELL THAT WUTLESS HUSBAND OF YOR'N TO GIT OUT AN' GIT HIM A DECENT JOB WORKIN' FER WAGES
I CAN'T COMPLAIN NONE, ELVINEY
FER TWENTY-ODD YEARS HE'S KEPT A ROOF OVER MY HEAD

THE PHANTOM
DATED THE WAMBESI STARE AS THE GREAT DRUM OF THERPENN PURRS—
I am your friend... I am one of you...
I AM THE GREATEST OF ALL DRUMMERS—YOU WILL BE PROUD OF ME—YOU WILL BRAG TO OTHERS—
I will bring you wealth and fame...

JOE PALOOKA
BABS! I THOUGHT YOU HAD BETTER JUDGMENT THAN TO BECOME INVOLVED WITH A MAN OF HIS BACKGROUND.
I BROUGHT MARK HERE, CONFIDING THAT YOU AND DAD WOULD GIVE HIM A CHANCE... AND I'M SHOCKED AT WHAT YOU DID! YOU BEHAVED LIKE SNOBS!
GOODNIGHT, MOTHER! I'M GOING TO MY HOTEL—I NEVER WANT TO STAY IN THIS HOUSE AGAIN!
TELEPHONE FOR YOU, DADDY! I THINK IT IS UNCLE MARK!

Drinking Gets Youth In Trouble

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth in a series of ten articles condensed from the new book "Ann Landers Talks To Teen-Agers About Sex." Copyright (c) 1963 by Prentice-Hall, Inc. By Ann Landers

This chapter is not going to be a sermon on the horrors of alcohol. Each of us knows dozens of respectable people who drink and enjoy it. Liquor has never been a problem to those people, and it never will be. They have never lost a day's work because of drinking although an occasional hangover may have made them wish they had put the cork back in the bottle a few drinks earlier.

These respectable social drinkers live useful and productive lives. And they will probably die of natural causes without having seen even one pink elephant.

From the beginning of recorded history man has used alcohol. Using certain roots and herbs, or berries and fruit, he found that through fermentation he could produce a liquid which made him "feel pretty good." This elixir was believed to possess magical powers because those who drank it behaved as if they were under a spell. It was used primarily in religious ceremonies to drive out evil spirits.

Billion Dollar Business
After a while people began to work up their own little mixtures for personal use. Obviously, the idea caught on, because in 1962 (in the United States alone) more than five billion dollars was spent on hard liquor. Let's face it. Liquor is here to stay. For those who hoped otherwise, the signal rang out loud and clear when the Prohibition Act of 1920 laid one of the biggest social eggs in history.

Although the sale of liquor to minors is still illegal, every high school kid knows how and where to get it. So, like every other question that involves human behavior, to drink or not to drink must be resolved at the personal level. Each of us must decide for himself what to do about it.

It would be unrealistic to write a book on teen-agers and sex and ignore drinking, when thousands of teen-agers have told me that liquor was one of the major causes of their sexual involvements.

Alcohol's Effects
Before we explore the effects of alcohol on the personality, let's examine some of the evidence that tells us what alcohol does to the body. Moderate drinking (and by moderate I mean two or three drinks on a Saturday night) will have no permanent, damaging effect on a normal, healthy person. Two drinks may interfere with vision and coordination just enough to cause a serious auto accident, but this is a different matter.

Moderate drinking will not rot the liver, the stomach or the kidneys, nor will it lead to deterioration of the brain. Remember I am using the word moderate, and I refer to normal, healthy people. This does not include those who are allergic to alcohol.

Some people should have no liquor. They are alcoholics. For the alcoholic one drink is too many and one hundred is not enough.

What then is liquor good for? A medicine? The folklore that liquor is useful for medicinal purposes is for the most part scientifically incorrect.

More folklore: Liquor can cure a cold. The fact is: It usually makes a cold worse.

The old wives' tale that alcohol should be kept on hand in case of a snake bite is malarkey. In this emergency I suggest the liquor be poured on the snake. (Just remember that if you are ever bitten by a snake, don't take a drink, because alcohol will dilate your blood vessels and spread the poison through your system more rapidly!) These facts are not folklore.

Useful Sedative
Alcohol is useful as a sedative. It slows up the body processes, induces drowsiness and sleep.

Alcohol is also useful as a pain-killer.

Some physicians recommend a drink before dinner to stimulate appetite. But this would scarcely be of interest to teen-agers, since most teen-agers have appetites which could usefully be curbed, not stimulated.

Almost everyone who drinks will swear on a stack of Bibles that liquor stimulates him. Exactly the opposite is true. Liquor unquestionably produces a superficially stimulating effect, but the exhilaration is only temporary. Liquor is a depressant — as any doctor will attest.

Why then, after a few drinks, do people often become friendly, lively and even boisterous? How can a few ounces of liquid produce feelings of exhilaration, superiority, self-confidence, power?

The answer is simple, once you understand the chemical nature of alcohol.

Hits Reason
Alcohol goes to work on the area of the brain which controls reason, judgment and our inhibitions. That area of the brain then tends to become less effective than it normally is. It is "frozen."

If a dentist has ever given you a shot of novocaine you are familiar with the feeling of numbness that follows. The dentist can extract a tooth after an injection of novocaine, and you will feel nothing. Alcohol works in much the same way.

The personality changes that occur as a result of excessive drinking mystify and terrify relatives and friends of problem drinkers.

Frequently a person who drinks is under the impression that liquor brings out his attractive and admirable qualities. Unleashes his flashing wit and transforms him into an interesting conversationalist.

Liquor can indeed produce changes, but whether these changes are for the better can be decided more accurately by a sober (and objective) observer. Alcohol cannot improve talent nor can it bring out hidden genius. It can only fog the judgment and display a raw, uninhibited personality.

The feeling of being on top of the world is temporary. When the drinker moves past his threshold of tolerance the rosy glow fades and the drinker often becomes depressed, miserable, ill — and sometimes loses consciousness.

Hangovers Hurt

The aftereffects of a booze blast can be devastating. Although no one has ever died from a hangover, a great many people have wished they could. The morning-after feelings of nausea, weakness, remorse, and guilt can be overwhelming. Added to the physical misery of a hangover, the anxiety of being unable to remember what was said or done in pure torture.

Why are liquor and sex frequent and natural bedfellows? Because liquor has the power to break down the will and paralyze the judgment. Teen-agers (and adults) who write me often confess they first became involved in illicit sexual relations while under the influence of alcohol. They say, "If I hadn't gotten tanked up, I wouldn't be in this mess. I'm really not that kind of person — and never have been. After a few highballs I lost my head completely."

Let's explore the link between sex and liquor. The sex drive is one of the most powerful and persistent drives known to man. Through the centuries civilized man has learned to control his primitive urges. This is one of the basic differences between human beings and the lower animals. But when liquor gets into the act, the inhibitions melt away and animal instincts take over.

The sex urges are present whether you are married or single, drunk or sober, deeply in love or just cruising around in search of a little excitement for the evening. The biological drive is concerned only with reproduction and is ever alert for the opportunity.

How To Handle It
How can a teen-ager best handle situations which might result from excessive drinking? This is how I dealt with the problem when I was a teen-ager.

I looked around at the kids in my school who were drinkers. Some of them were fairly well thought of, they came from respectable families and were not what you'd call hoodlums. But they were, for the most part, the hell-raisers, not the leaders or the kids I admired.

Then I observed what went on at parties. I believe this, more than anything, led me to the final decision. The top-notchers, I noticed, were nagivating under their own power. They were having every bit as much fun as the kids who were getting stoned, but there was no sweat. They avoided liquor without making a point of it.

I watched the kids who were drinking. Their antics ranged from the amusing to the revolting. As the evening wore on, moods changed. Some of the kids became depressed and sullen. Others became pugnacious. The girls who drank too much were the saddest sights of all. Their hairdos collapsed and makeup which had been painstakingly applied was smeared and running.

I often thought if someone would take candid pictures and show them to these girls the following day, it would dry 'em up forever.

The big problem in drinking seems to be knowing when to call a halt. I concluded it was a lot easier not to take that first drink than to burden myself with deciding when to quit. So my drink was always ginger ale, or tomato juice or orangeade. And it still is.

Not A Square
Did being an abstainer label me a square? (In those days the term was "wet blanket.") Did it interfere with my popularity? I don't think it did. I always had plenty of boy friends — in fact, I suspect being a nondrinker increased my popularity because I was a "cheap date."

The boys didn't have to spend much money on me because my liquid intake for the evening was two ginger ales. Some teen-agers — and surprisingly enough, more adults — feel compelled to drop a cherry in their 7-Up so that it will appear to be a Tom Collins. They feel they must cover up the fact that they are drinking a nonalcoholic beverage. On occasion it has been suggested that I use this decoy so the ginger ale will look like the "real thing." I've been told it will "make others more comfortable."

Nonsense. I refuse on the grounds that if their drinking doesn't bother me, my not drinking shouldn't bother them.

I've given you the facts on drinking, as I see them. It's up to you to decide whether to take the wet road or the dry.
